PRESS RELEASE

No. 227/2013

Date: 28th March 2013

‘GIVE US TIME’ FOR INJURED SOLDIERS

In the next two weeks, several injured soldiers will be visiting Gibraltar, courtesy of a charity called ‘Give Us Time’. This is a charity founded by former UK Defence Secretary Dr Liam Fox to provide holidays for soldiers recently returned from operational duties. These soldiers require quality time with their families in order to reintegrate into family life and to recuperate after six difficult months apart.

The soldiers selected for the trip to Gibraltar have all been injured on operational service in Afghanistan. On the first week (30 Mar – 6 Apr) two soldiers will be accompanied by their families and in the following week (6 – 13 Apr) a further three soldiers have been nominated along with their families.

HM Government of Gibraltar will be sponsoring all the flights whilst Gibraltar resident, Mr Douglas Hall, will be providing food and accommodation.

For these soldiers, this promises to be the trip of a lifetime.
