No: 525/2013

Date: 17th July 2013

NEW WEBSITE FOR GHA

The Gibraltar Health Authority has launched its new website at www.gha.gi

The website, which has been designed and developed completely in-house, provides information on all aspects of the healthcare services available to visitors, patients and health professionals in Gibraltar. It also offers a great deal of information to assist with enquiries and links to the latest health-related news.

The new GHA website contains general contact information, guides, forms, information leaflets, and other media content that patients, visitors and health service users will find both useful and informative.

The site is designed to work on multiple platforms and web browsers and will be developed and enhanced with new features and functionalities.

The site also offers a direct link to the NHS Choices website that provides further information such as a symptom checker, guides to common illnesses and much more.

Commenting on the launch of the new website the Minister for Health & Environment, the Hon Dr John Cortes MP added "We have assembled this site as a way of improving the dissemination of information about the Gibraltar Health Authority and to offer health information to residents and visitors alike. I am sure that users will find the necessary information about the many services we provide and hope that you find the content both useful and informative.

It is our aim to provide as much information as possible online and we will strive to develop new technologies to allow for more services to be carried out via the web and mobile devices. This website is one of the many steps we are taking to improve our health services through the means of technology.

As you navigate through our website, please leave a comment or feedback that would help us improve our website as well as our services”

The GHA has also released details of its Facebook and Twitter accounts:
