Gibraltar Jigsaw Puzzles Game

As part of H.M. Government of Gibraltar's campaign to increase awareness about our local environment, the Department of the Environment has created a fun and educational game which can be played by children and adults alike.

Kevin, a local Gibraltarian boy, is bored of watching TV and playing video games all day. Because of his negative attitude, problems occur which he has to then sort out with the help of Jiggy, the jigsaw piece.

This game is currently available on the Department of the Environment's Thinking Green Website [www.thinkinggreen.gov.gi] and can be played directly from your computer. The game will also be available shortly on both iTunes and the Google Play Store.

This is the first of a number of apps to be released by the Department of the Environment in line with their environmental education programme.

Why don't you join Kevin and Jiggy, and help solve the puzzles to discover what Gibraltar's natural environment has to offer?
