SUSTAINABLE CONSTRUCTION TRAINING COURSE

As part of its commitments under the Energy Performance of Buildings Directive, the Environmental Action & Management Plan and the Government's Green Procurement Policy, the Department of the Environment is organising a 2-day training course on sustainable construction.

'The course is being delivered by the Green Register, who will be sending three of their expert trainers to Gibraltar to deliver the course in "Sustainable Building Services," said the Hon Dr John Cortes, Minister for the Environment.

Several student places will be available to individuals from outside the Ministry at a cost of £135 per place, including lunch and refreshments. The course will take place at the Caleta Hotel on 23/24 January 2014 with all relevant information being available on the Thinking Green website (www.thinkinggreen.gov.gi)
