Sponsors sought for Gib Literary Festival

Fresh from his presence at the recent FT Weekend Oxford Literary Festival, Minister for Tourism, Commercial Affairs, Public Transport and the Port Neil Costa MP, has declared that the second edition of the Gibunco Gibraltar Literary Festival is already taking shape and promises to be another memorable event in Gibraltar's cultural calendar.

"We are already working hard to ensure that a good contingent of prestigious writers is attracted to our second international festival. There is a great deal of interest in literary circles in the UK and the potential of our festival is tremendous," said the Minister.

Mr Costa introduced the newly created Gibraltar Lecture, which was delivered by award-winning African writer Ben Okri.

The dates for the festival of 14th to 16th November 2014 have now been confirmed. As a result any company, firm or business that wishes to sponsor, be involved in or assist in any of the events and activities connected with the festival, is invited to write to the Gibraltar Tourist Board – e-mail info@gibraltarliteraryfestival.com – expressing their interest and detailing their proposed involvement.
