The Ministry of Culture is pleased to announce that children aged 12 and under will again be allowed free entry into the Gibraltar Music Festival on Saturday 5th and Sunday 6th September 2015.

Every child must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian. Children's free tickets can now be collected from the Ministry of Culture at the City Hall, John Mackintosh Square (Piazza) as from Monday 27th July on weekdays between 10am and 2pm. Free tickets are valid for the General Entry area only. There are no free children's tickets for the VIP area.

You must be able to prove at the ticket office, original documentation, that you are in fact the parent or legal guardian of the child/children as well as the age of the child/children. A purchased valid entry ticket to the festival must also be produced at the ticket office by the parent or guardian. General entry tickets for anyone aged 13 and over are priced at £65 for one day or £79 for both days.

Free children's tickets will only be issued for the same duration as the valid ticket produced by the parent/guardian, i.e. a free children's weekend pass will only be given to a parent/guardian if they hold a valid weekend pass.
